FRUIT PRICES ARE CHEAPER

Local Markets Show Drop in Cost of Lemons, Oranges and Bananas.

Retail prices on oranges, lemons and bananas are lower than they have been for some time. Retail prices on oranges range from 40, 50, and 60 to 90 cents a dozen. Lemons vary from 30 to 40 cents a dozen.

Three years ago, local dealers pointed out, the high price of oranges and lemons was caused by a heavy demand. During the influenza epidemic more lemons and oranges were used than ever before, resulting in higher prices. Lemons now sell for 30 and 40 cents a dozen sold for 60 cents a dozen last year. The orange and lemon crop was unusually large this year, the merchants say. Three years ago lemons now costing $4 a box cost nearly $10.

Retail prices of bananas are a little lower than a few weeks ago. Best bananas sell for 15 cents a pound, or 40 cents a dozen.

Other household commodities on the local market were priced as follows: Celery, 15 cents a bunch; sweet potatoes, $1 a peck; Irish potatoes, 50 to 75 cents a peck; onions, 4 and 5 cents a pound; lettuce, 25 cents a pound; turnips, 30 cents a peck; parsnips, 3 for 25 cents; cranberries, 30 cents a quart; carrots, 81-3 cents a pound; cabbage, 4 cents a pound; apples, 40 cents a dozen; apples for cooking, 75 cents a peck; grape fruit, 10 to 15 cents; and tangerines, 50 cents a dozen.

Bills Would Make Thrift and Religion Compulsory in Schools

Two bills are before the Missouri Legislature which, if passed, will bring about a new department in education in the state.

One of them provides that thrift shall be taught in all public schools. While the teaching of thrift is not new in the schools of Boone County, it has never been ordered taught by the school boards. Such a course is now, and has been for the past few years, taught at the option of the teachers. It is based on a bulletin sent out by the Treasury Department of the United States during the war to superintendents of schools throughout the whole country. The plan in Boone County schools has been to correlate the suggestions in the pamphlet with other classes. The same sort of work is being done in other counties. The plan has worked very well and produced worthwhile results in Boone County.

The second bill pending would make it compulsory to open the schools each day with religious services or prayers. Heretofore the laws of the state have never required that religious services of any sort be used in the schools of the state, nor has there been any legislation to prevent the use of religious services. Laws now provide that there shall be no compulsory teaching of religion when it is not desired. Whether or not the proposed law requiring school to be opened with prayer each day would be well received cannot be determined, as such a plan has never been tried in Missouri before.

CAN SERVE MEALS AT COST

State Senate Passes Bill Authorizing Practice of Feeding Pupils.

By a Staff Correspondent. JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 8.—The bill which will allow food to be served at cost to pupils of the public schools of the state, when the board of education or other administrative officers of any school district think it advisable, was passed by the Senate yesterday by a unanimous vote.

This practice has been going on in many of the cities of the state without legal authority for some time. The purpose of the present bill was to authorize by law these practices.

What May Happen If Your Place Burns

While you are reading this, someone's build-up every minute of the year. If your place is being destroyed by fire. It happens burns, what will happen to your business records that can't be duplicated and can't be insured? Even if they are in a safe, is it a modern safe that will live through the fire? So that your vital papers will be really safe, Allsteel Underwriters' Model Safes are made to pass the grueling two-hour test of the Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.

The safe, containing records, letters, and other papers, is put into a gas furnace and kept there, with a temperature up to 1,700 degrees Fahrenheit, for one hour. (Paper burns at 460 degrees F. At the end of the hour, the red-hot safe is hoisted to a platform and dropped 30 feet on a concrete bed covered with broken bricks. After cooling, it is again put in the furnace upside down and heated another hour to 1,700 degrees F. When cooled the safe is opened and the contents must be intact.

An Allsteel safe that will successfully go through such a test as this gives protection in the modern sense of the word.

Allsteel Safes

Every Allsteel Underwriters' Model Safe has the label of the Underwriters Laboratories, Inc., which means that it is the same in design and material as the ones that actually passed the test described.

But safety is only one of the advantages of the Allsteel. It is the lightest safe of its type made. It has greater interior capacity than any other safe. Furthermore, you can select from a wide variety of sections the interior arrangement adapted to the particular needs of your own business. Take the first step toward the protection you owe to yourself and others by paying a visit to the Allsteel dealer in your town.
